

Dufflet and David's announce merger of operations

Dufflet Small Indulgences and David's Fine Belgian Chocolates, a division of Chocolate Signatures, recently announced the merger of their businesses into one sweet confectionery company headquartered in Toronto.

Aligning David's experience as a chocolate maker with Dufflet's celebrated baked dessert items, the partnership aims to create innovative and award-winning products with impactful package design.

Heather Chu, media relations for Dufflet, said "We're basically keeping the brands as separate identities," but there is a strong possibility a co-branded product will be developed in the future and marketed under both brands.
