Chefs and restaurateurs across the city are heading into the Twitterverse in a big way. Since our last roundup of Toronto foodie feeds, the popularity of the on-line service has exploded, with Grant van Gameren, Anthony Walsh, Dufflet Rosenberg and many more joining the fray. We find ourselves addicted to the culinary dispatches from these local epicureans (unlike most inane tweets that detail what's for dinner). Here, our latest guide to who's tweeting what.

• The city's darling baker, Dufflet Rosenberg keeps a low profile with less than 70 followers (we're sure that'll soon change) and starts off every update with the words "sweet tweet," followed by photos of her newest treats and general news about her bakery. [Dufflet Rosenberg on Twitter]
